

Pushing Up Daisies

The fully clothed body of a woman is found in the middle of a field in Lewes. Cattle are grazing in the next field, otherwise the scene is not overlooked. She is identified as 40-year-old Daisy Roots by her boyfriend, Herman Hermit. Daisy suffers from no known medical conditions, she enjoyed an active life and belonged to several different sports clubs. Daisy has suffered internal injuries, broken bones and a skull fracture. There is also an unopened package with her. The contents of the package could have saved Daisy's life. The package and its contents are made of a red synthetic material. What is in the package?

